PRIVACY POLICY

Data that you make available

We protect your privacy and personal data. By sharing with us your data, you agree to how we use and collect that information which is described as under:

Only registered users who access the customer interface (“user area”) are able to post content for the purpose to be seen by other users on our website (“public content”), such as descriptions, pictures, business details or participate in blogs and forums.

Following information we collect and store from you:

Basically any information that you enter or post on our website in any way. This includes the content in the user generated content areas and also the user area where you manage your personal information, payment details, contact details, user name password, products and content.

We might partner with Facebook to provide Instant Personalization on the website for members of Facebook. If you have "enabled" that feature in your Facebook privacy settings and you are logged into Facebook, then the website might be personalized for you. Facebook might provide us with information that you have chosen to make available based on your Facebook privacy settings. You can disable this feature within your facebook privacy settings.

Automatic Data

We might collect automatically technical information about your computer when you visit the website. E.g. session data, IP address, browser, and referring site. We may collect information about your online activity, such as date and time of log-in, content viewed and pages visited.

Third Party Tracking and other Web Technologies.

Cookies are small data text files and can be stored on your computer’s hard drive (if your Web browser permits). We and our affiliated websites use cookies for collecting general and non-personal information about visits and visitor’s behavior on our website.

Third parties like google adsense might - based on their cookies - display ads or collect tracking data. You can prevent the use of cookies by setting your privacy settings of your browser accordingly.

We DO NOT share your personal information (such as email addresses) with unaffiliated third parties.

Protecting your information

We are committed to protecting the information we collect but it is not possible to guarantee 100% security. However we have implemented appropriate security procedures to help protect the personal information you provide to us.

Location

When you use bali.com on a PC, on a mobile phone or a tablet (“hardware”), we might collect and use information about your location, if you have instructed your hardware to send such information or if you have uploaded photos tagged with location information. We will use the location information collected from your device or photos to e.g. show and visualize content on maps (map view).

You can disallow within your privacy settings of your hardware or PC browsers “location sharing.

Owners and Managers

If you have signed up as the owner or manager of a business we will send you messages and get in touch with you via the contact details you have provided to us

Sharing your Information

We may share your public content that you have given us with other partners, affiliates, social media networks or other website users through newsletters etc. This does not include any personal information (“non-public content”).

We may share aggregated or anonymous information with third parties, including advertisers and investors. For example the number of visitors. This information does not contain any personal information.

Non-public Content;

We will not share your personal information with anyone outside of Bali Portal and our corporate family, unless government bodies require us to do so in response to subpoenas, court orders or investigations of tax officers and law enforcement bodies.

We may share with institutions and regulators non-public content, only when we believe it is necessary to investigate, prevent illegal or suspected illegal activities.

We may share non-public content with a third party, in connection with a corporate transaction, such as a divestiture, merger, consolidation, or asset sale, or in the unlikely event of bankruptcy.
